INTRODUCTION.

THE following pages contain particulars of the Accounts of Thomas Walmysley, one of the Judges of the Court of Common Pleas, from 1589 to 1612,* on his riding the Western Circuit with Edward Fenner, one of the Judges of the Queen's Bench,† at the autumn and spring assizes, in every year, from July 1596 to March 1601; and also the account of Thomas Walmysley on his riding the Oxford Circuit with Peter Warburton, another Justice of the Common Pleas,‡ in the autumn of the year 1601. On Sir Thomas Walmysley's monument at Blackburn it was recorded, that during the twenty-three years of his tenure of office he went "all the cercuets of England, except Norfolk and Suffolk." §

The accounts themselves are contained in a pocket volume, bound in vellum, and written by two persons, who had the supervision of the whole expenditure. The original MS. which came from the papers belonging to the family of Lord Petre, descendants of Mr. Justice Walmysley, has been lent to me by Mr. William Harper, of Bury, Lancashire. I have given the accounts of the first Western Circuit, and also of the Oxford Circuit, without abridgement. On the other visits upon the Western Circuit I have given only a statement of the presents made to the Judges, and any thing particularly worthy of note in the purchases.

At the time of these accounts the Act which prohibited a Judge from holding the assizes on any circuit of which he was a native, or inhabited,* was in full force; but it is worthy of remark that the same two Judges should have holden every assize for the same circuit during five consecutive years. The same country gentlemen repeated their presents circuit after circuit, and there can be little doubt that the intimacy between the Judges and the gentry could have been little less than would have occurred had the Judge sat once on a circuit in one town of his native county. On many occasions, however, licence was given to the Judge to go the circuit in which was his native county. During the Commonwealth the Parliament directed Serjeant, afterwards Baron Thorpe, who was born in Yorkshire,† to go the Northern Circuit, in the spring of 1648–9, the commission to be with a non obstante;‡ and in the Council Book of the same period there is an order, extending the exemption to all the Judges. The prohibition has been repealed, and to prevent any mischief from the constant visits of the Judges to the same assize towns, the rule has obtained that a Judge shall not choose the same circuit on two successive assizes.

At the close of Elizabeth's reign the name and the fact of "riding" the circuit were identical. For the Western Circuit the judges and their officers started on horseback from Holborn, and thence proceeded from town to town. Where the distance between any two places was great they rested at some gentleman's house, or at some intermediate town. Thus, on the way to Winchester, the Judges usually slept at Mr. Rudiard's house at Hatley, or sometimes at Mr. Wallopp's at Farley; or at the Bishop of Winchester's; or, on the road to Andover, at Mr. Palmer's at Overton; they slept also at the Marquess of Winchester's, between Winchester and Andover; at Sir Richard Rogers's, or Mr. Morton's, between Salisbury and Dorchester; at Mr. Speke's, between Dorchester and Exeter; at Mr. Elveston's, at Lyme Regis; at Mr. Fulford's, or at Mr. Serjeant Glanville's, between Exeter and Launceston; at Mr. Gale's, at Kirton; at Mr. Monk's, or at Mr. Stuckley's, or at Mr. Jennings', or at Mr. Berry's, on the way between Launceston and Taunton; or at Mr. Drake's, on the road from Chard to Exeter. Whilst on the Oxford Circuit they partook of the hospitality of Mr. Savage at Bridgnorth, of Mr. Pitt on the way between Hereford and Worcester, and of Mr. Owen on the road between Shrewsbury and Stafford.

At the houses of these private gentlemen the only expenses incurred were for vails to the servants, usually amounting to half a crown each to the cook, the butler, and the stablemen, and something less for the chamberlain. In some of the towns, also, the Judges were provided for; at Bridgnorth by the bailiffs; at Burford by the aldermen and townsmen; and at Blandford by a plentiful supply from Mr. Swaine.

In the assize towns the expenses of the Judges were in two parts. 1. The joint charges, including the rewards for presents sent, and the payments for lodgings, and all other expenses of the household; and 2. The private charge against each Judge for the keep of the horses, the lodging of the grooms, and the general costs of the stable. Occasionally, however, the provision for the horses was furnished by the sheriff: several times in Devonshire by the clerk of assize: and once at Hereford by Mr. Walwyn, "the lawyer."

An Order in Council in February, 1574, had relieved the sheriffs from the charge of the Judges' diet, yet the sheriff of each county sent large presents of fish, flesh, and fowl for the use of the Judges; and in Devonshire that officer regularly supplied the suppers, and on many days the dinners: in every county some of the mayors of towns and other public bodies, and the principal country gentlemen, also sent presents of like provisions in quantities so ample, that the tables of the Queen's representatives must have been extremely well furnished. Accordingly, we find that bread, flour, eggs, butter, vegetables, firewood, the grocers' bills, beer, and wine, formed the largest items of expenditure.

The presents to the Judges on circuit have now nearly ceased. The sheriff sometimes sends venison or beer, and some customary gifts are still made in particular towns; as at Oxford, where the Judges are on every circuit presented with a pair of white gloves trimmed with gold; and at Cambridge the stirrup-cup is yet given by the Master of Trinity on the Judges' departure. In most counties at a maiden assize the sheriff provides white gloves for the Judge.

The accounts for Devonshire show also the bills of fare for dinner and supper on most of the days, and demonstrate how the inconvenience of an entire day's fish fasting in Lent was ingeniously avoided, by having the fish supper on the Tuesday and Thursday after a hearty meat dinner, and on the Wednesday and Friday adding a substantial meat supper to the abstinence from flesh at dinner.

The maritime counties enabled the country gentlemen to make presents of nearly every species of sea-fish, as well as fresh-water fish from their own ponds and lakes. Among the sea-fish, whether new or salted and dried, we find several sorts not now used at table, and some of which the names have been nearly lost.

FISH.—Of the sturgeon, pieces were sent at Taunton, Dorchester, and Exeter; an isle at Salisbury and Stafford, and a keg at Monmouth and Shrewsbury. The salmon was usual in February and in July in all the western counties, and at Monmouth and Shrewsbury; an isle came to Chard and Salisbury, and salt salmon in February to Winchester and Launceston. Salmon peale were also general in the West and at Gloucester. The shewings, or sea-trout, appear at Hereford. The dolphin appears once at Dorchester in February; a piece of porpoise (to be roasted or cooked like the sturgeon) once at Launceston; and the dory at Oakhampton and Taunton. The conger was eaten at Taunton, Oakhampton, and Exeter, and an isle of it found its way to Dorchester. The cod was used fresh, and also salted and dried, and a cod's head is not unfrequent; whilst the milwell, a fish allied to the cod, appears in Dorsetshire, Devonshire, and Cornwall, as a whole fish in some instances, and in an isle, and also dried, in Devonshire. Turbot were not very frequent, but are mentioned at Taunton, Dorchester, and Exeter. Braymes were used at Exeter and Gloucester; Basse, or sea-perch, at Exeter, Salisbury, and Dorchester, and also at Reading; Mulletts were not unfrequent; and soles, plaiçe, haddock, herrings, whiting, the thornback or scate, and sprats, were common.

The other dried fish were the buckthorn, or whiting, split and dried; the haberdine, or salt cod; ling of various sorts, viz. the London, Devonshire, organ, and green salt ling; herrings; and the dried and salted hake once (February 1598) at Winchester, called in the account "a drie fish called Poor John," and most contemptuously treated by Shakespeare.

'Tis well thou art not fish; if thou hadst, thou hadst been poor John.

GREGORY—Romeo and Juliet, Act I. Scene 1.

What have we here? A man or a fish? Dead or alive? A fish: he smells like a fish, a very ancient and fish-like smell; a kind of not of the newest poor John.

TRINCULO—Tempest, Act II. Scene 2.

The shell-fish included oysters of two sorts—one called at Salisbury and Chard the “long oyster;” lobsters, crabs, shrimps, cockles, mussels, whelks, the razor-fish once, and crawfish plentiful.

The fresh-water fish were the Thames trout at Reading, and trout frequently elsewhere; the pike, carp, tench, perch, roach, flounders, barbel; lampreys in February at Winchester, Salisbury, and Taunton; eels generally, and Holland eels at Winchester, and Flanders at Exeter.

MEAT.—The most general present from those gentlemen who had parks was a buck, but the venison was mostly baked, not roasted: sometimes the doe and stag appear. Beef was very seldom used; the working of the oxen on the farms and the milking of the cows gave little beef for the butcher, yet occasionally we meet with a loin, a chine, or a pood; “a veal,” however, is of constant occurrence, and on many occasions calves’ feet. “A MUTTON,” the old and distinguishing term for the dead sheep, is found at every place: lambs in the spring and also in the summer, and a favourite dish was a lamb’s “appurtenances,” or fry. A pig, a collar of brawn, and a roasting-pig, are likewise on the list. Kids are also met with, once at Winchester, given by the sheriff; several times at Launceston, as presents from Mr. Trelawny; and in all the assize towns on the Oxford circuit, from Oxford to Shrewsbury, no less than five having been given at Monmouth.

FOWL was of all kinds. We do not now dress the bustard, one of which was given at Salisbury by Mr. Edward Penruddock in June 1600; or the heron, given at Dorchester and Taunton; or the heronshawes,* which came in at Salisbury, Dorchester, Exeter, and * Sauce gallantine for porpoise, heronshawe, and curlews. “Hérons, curlews, crane, bittern, bustard, be at all times good, but best in winter.” A proper new Booke of Cookery, 1575.

Launceston, and also at Oxford and Stafford (of which the bodies without the legs were stuffed and roasted); or the curlew, which was furnished at Chard, Dorchester, and Exeter; or the gull,* which was relished in the two latter towns as well as in Salisbury and Launceston; or the puffin, which was a rarity met with in Cornwall alone; or the kite cooked at Exeter. Other birds find their way to our table. The peacock † was once dressed at Chard in July: the swan in February graced the table at Winchester, Salisbury, Andover, Taunton, and Dorchester, and two cygnets at Oxford. Turkeys, then a rare bird, were presented on the earliest circuit by the sheriff, Mr. Trelawny, and Mr. Sharock, in Cornwall; subsequently by the sheriff, Sir W. Sanders, Mr. St. John, and Mr. Kingsmill, in Hants; in 1600 at Winchester, Dorchester, and Exeter; and young turkeys in July, 1601, by the Bishop of Coventry and Lichfield. Geese were cooked in February, and green geese at Winchester and Dorchester in July. ‡ Ducks and ducklings, larks, pigeons, capons, chicken, pullets, even hens and sparrows, added to the store.

Nor was game and wild-fowl deficient. The *heath-poult*s, now seldom met with in the West, were sent as presents at Salisbury, Dorchester, and Stafford; and the heath-cock at Launceston. Pheasants, § of which there were not many, and partridges, which were abundant, were killed on both circuits in the months of June and July, and also in February. Quails, now very scarce, formed a portion of the presents in each of the Western assize towns and at Oxford. Plover, golden and green, arrived at Taunton and Exeter; puetts at Winchester, Salisbury, Dorchester, Exeter, and Oxford, Worcester, and Stafford; and a dozen oxen and kyne, "being birds," (ruffs and reeves?) appear once in July at Exeter. These, with widgeon, teal, woodcocks,* and snipes, made the delicacies in this department.

The West of England has long been famous for its pies of every sort—meat, fish, fruit, and vegetable; and these accounts give us a very favourable opinion of proficiency in this line, when we find the true distinction drawn between pasties (the crust baked without a dish) of red deer and venison: tarts of quince, apple, cherry, and custard: and pies proper, composed of a gammon of bacon, calves' feet, neat's tongue, lamb, swan, turkey, pheasant, goose, capon, chicken, pigeon, salmon, trout, carp, lamprey, quince, pippin, apple, and down to the pie, which still holds its own in Devonshire, the potato, given at Exeter in February, 1601, and the only instance in which that new root is mentioned. These varieties have given rise to the popular saying that if the old gentleman himself were caught in Devonshire he would be clapped into a pie.

The VEGETABLES consisted of roots and salads in every town: the names are not stated; but oil, vinegar, and verjuice (the acid of the crab-apple), were provided for the salads. Artichokes were rarities which were sent as presents; peas, beans, onions, and radishes are common; parsnips also occur; carrots are named only at Exeter; and samphire at Chard, Dorchester, and Exeter.

* Served with mustard and sugar.

The FRUIT included oranges in the month of July as well as of February; lemons in July; cherries 4*d.* a pound; apples plain, baked, and stewed; pears, strawberries, gooseberries, at Salisbury and Dorchester; and raspberries once only at Gloucester.

Cheese formed part of the dessert, and accordingly we find it mixed up in the purchases of cherries, strawberries, apples, and other fruit: the sorts are not generally distinguished: we meet, however, with an Holland cheese at Dorchester and with a Lantony cheese at Gloucester.

At Exeter and Launceston alone we discover presents of boxes of marmalade, and at Exeter plates of jelly.

The accounts are not in sufficient detail to enable me to give the prices of many of the articles bought. Butter varied in price; the ordinary cost being 4*d.* a pound in summer and 6*d.* in the spring: and candles cost 5*d.* a pound.

BEER was the great drink and was most plentifully supplied; 89 gallons were consumed in three days at Winchester, 90 gallons in two days at Salisbury, a butt in five days at Chard and Exeter; the sheriffs usually sent a portion, but where that fell short of the demand purchases were made at a cost of 5*s.* or 6*s.* a barrel. In July, 1597, two shillings, representing 12 gallons of beer, were paid between Oakhampton and Launceston "in the extreme heat." Small beer was carefully avoided: its name very seldom appears, and when it does its cost was one-third of the best beer.

WINE* was sometimes sent among the presents; more commonly it was purchased: here, however, the sorts and quantities are seldom * See "A new booke of the natures and properties of all wines that are commonly used here in England," by William Turner, 1568, dedicated to Sir William Cecill. Sack, malmesey, muscadell, and claret from France and Gascony were the wines most used in England. There was a prejudice against Rhenish.

distinguished: the cost varied at the different towns, as much as 12s. 6d. being paid at Winchester: 8s. or 9s. was the ordinary cost; in Cornwall it was as low as 3s., 4d.; and 2s. 9d. at Stafford. Wine and sugar are frequently put together in the accounts in one item, and are so distinguished from sack,* of which four pints were bought at Salisbury; and the sheriff of Devonshire presented on one occasion a pint; on another a tierce, or 42 gallons; and on another a rundlet, or 18 gallons; whilst Mr. Denys sent a pottle, or two quarts, at Gloucester. Claret was also bought at Salisbury; the sheriff of Devon sent three gallons on one circuit, a firkin, a tierce, and so much as a hog-head, or 63 gallons, on other occasions, and Dr. Martyn at Oxford a rundlet. The only other wine distinguished by a name is called Rhenish, of which a rundlet was presented once at Exeter, and two bottles at Monmouth. Throughout the several circuits the cost of the wine was not more than one-third the expense for the beer, and in some places it was classed with articles of less importance, appearing in the same item with strawberries at Dorchester, and sinking once at Salisbury so low as to be included with small beer: hence I assume that home-made and sweet wines were usually drank, and that foreign wines were not commonly on the table.

At Worcester only were the Judges reduced to the extremity of paying for water.

The accounts do not furnish many other items worthy of particular comment; I will only note that Mr. Justice Fenner seems to have been the most jovial of the two, for it was his cook who went the circuit, and it was by his desire that a reward was given for the sport of coursing a buck between Salisbury and Blandford; that the city waits of Hereford had their reward for welcoming the administrators of the law; and that the poor came badly off on the Western and still worse off on the Oxford circuit: on the Western they received 20*d.* at every town in the summer from each Judge, and 3*s.* 4*d.* in the spring circuits from the joint purse, except once at Exeter, when the amount was doubled; but on the Oxford summer circuit they had only 2*s.* in every town as a joint contribution, or a shilling from each Judge.

The assizes for Hants were commonly held at Winchester Castle, but sometimes at Andover: the Somersetshire were most frequently held at Chard, though some were held at Taunton Castle, and on those occasions the assizes for this county were held after those for Cornwall, whilst the Chard sittings preceded the Exeter; where also the circuit upon some occasions ended, the county of Cornwall being altogether left out; and in the spring circuit of 1597 no assizes were held either for Devon or Cornwall.

By the Lansdowne MS. (53, Art. 92) it appears that Sir Roger Manwood and Justice William Periam were the Judges on the Western circuit in the spring of 1587, and had an allowance of 6*l.* 17*s.* 4*d.* a-day for diet, &c. during the twenty-six days which the circuit lasted, making altogether 178*l.* 10*s.* 8*d.* The first commission day on the circuit of Thos. Walmysley, in 1596, was the 5th July, and the last the 26th, so that about the same number of days were taken on the circuit. The first commission day in the summer of 1857 was 11th July, and the last 8th August. The Oxford circuit of 1587 was ridden by William Ayloffé and Francis Windham; it lasted twenty-eight days: their allowance was 6*l.* 2*s.* a-day for diet, &c. and the total sum paid to them was 170*l.* 16*s.* The first commission day in 1601 was 10th July, and the last 3rd August:

the circuit, therefore, lasted nearly a month. The first commission day in the summer circuit in 1857 was 9th July, and the last 5th August.

The Western circuit seems to have caused trouble to the Judges, since, in 1586, a declaration was drawn up "of the course used and needfull to be used by the Judges in the Western circuite in the delivery of the gaole and triall of nisi prius" (Lansd. MS. 49, Art. 23), wherein it is stated that where there fell a matter of importance or difficulty, were it for life or other cause, the Judges sat together; that few prisoners were indicted the first day, so that the Judges sat at nisi prius; that the number of prisoners in Somerset and Devon was very many, and the gaol delivery most commonly continued very nearly during the whole assize, so that, if the Judges always sat together, few trials at nisi prius could take place; that the gaol delivery was often delayed, because even during the last half-day many were indicted, owing to delay in the evidence, or on the part of the justices of the peace; and that if the Judges always sat together, and the assizes were thereby prolonged, the people would not tarry, for by experience it was found that towards the end of the assizes it was hard to find a jury for the trial of any one cause.

The names of the sheriffs from 1597 are given in the MS., and enable me to correct the lists usually printed for Cornwall, Dorsetshire, Wiltshire, and Somersetshire.
